HOCKEY CLUB

Pueblo, Co. – The Pueblo Bulls are extremely excited to announce the addition of Alex Houston to its staff as Director of Scouting/Recruiting for the Pueblo Bulls Hockey Club.

Alex's extensive background in playing and the broader Junior Hockey landscape will allow the Bulls to grow their network and continue to enhance their recruiting efforts.

A native of Ohio, Alex is currently playing with the Canisius Golden Griffins in the Atlantic Hockey Division of the NCAA. Alex was a member of the 2020-2021 Pueblo Bulls season and can speak with athletes first hand on the day to day life, facilities, and serving as an outlet for our players through the recruiting process.

Alex Houston quotes, "Pueblo was a very exciting place for me to come and play. I had been around to a few teams before I got to Pueblo and this was the place that really allowed me to settle in and feel apart of something bigger than the game. The staff is really well prepared, they have good structure, and I know I can help get some of the top players in the country to come through this program. Being at the level I am now, I see things that really separate guys on both ends; good and bad. That's going to be crucial in preparing these athletes for the next step in their individual careers."

"Alex is an incredible human being. He works hard, he is incredibly detailed, and he has a great connection with people that want him to succeed. He has capabilities to this at an extremely high level and we are grateful for the opportunity to continue his growth and development through the Bulls. Pueblo has everything an athlete could want from the fan experience to the facilities to the support staff we have in town. Giving Alex these tools to take off and share with top level athletes is something that excites this organization a ton. Once a Bull, always a Bull." – GM, Tyler Tuneberg
